

UC Nature Day

October 13

1–3 pm

5th Floor Terrace

1111 Franklin St.

UC Nature, formerly the UC Natural Reserve System, invites you to learn how our 42 reserves help conserve California biodiversity, train the next generation of scientists, and improve our understanding of the natural world. Students, researchers, and reserve staff will share how they use these natural landscapes to advance learning, research, and environmental stewardship. Enjoy light refreshments and gather souvenirs as you visit different stations.
